Pavitra Foundation, true to its name, is bringing sanctity back to water across India. I am moved by the passion with which they are pursuing their mission of reviving water bodies. Due to their efforts, our Alahalli Lake in Bengaluru is showing renewed life with the water becoming clearer by the day. More than 35 species of birds, some of them migratory, have started revisiting our lake.

Pavitra Foundation not only brought the technology to our Lake, but also funded a large portion of the project themselves including mobilizing the equipment and work force costs. Our Trust and the Alahalli neighborhood is indebted to them for investing so much of themselves to give us a clean and beautiful neighborhood lake. It is more than we ever thought possible for one Foundation to do. It has been a great pleasure working with the team at Pavitra.

I highly recommend Pavitra Foundation to anyone thinking of rejuvenating water bodies. They not only do a fantastic job but also their energy and passion is infectious and makes us believe that a different future is possible for our children.
